

To John Browne

13 July 1843

My dear Sir

On Saturday I am so particularly engaged that I shall not be able to join you at Rodds. But for a mere accident I should have been quite at your service on that day. As it is will Tuesday at 12 do as well for you? This is the earliest day I can now name.

Mr Barron Field has withdrawn his notes, because inter nos he has had an offer for them from one of the reviewrs - He is not the least apposited & will willingly lend us any aid in the transaction."

I am glad to say that my troublesome visitor - the influenza, - has shewn symptoms of departure. I will, in this instance, gladly "speed the parting guest."

Just write me a word of Tuesday at 12 will do -

Yrs most sincerely

Thursday night 13 July (I think)

Continue to write a short paper for the Transactions by the next committee. I will do so for the sake of setting the matter going. Any thing illustrative of our early Stage and Drama will of course answer the purpose.
